Subject: We Want Your iPod

THE ROCKET REPORT

JUNE 2003

TO PROTECT AND SERVE EVERY MAC ON THE PLANET

THE BIRTH OF A STAR

In the course of human events and published music, the wax cylinder became the vinyl record became the magnetic tape became the CD, and finally became the MP3. A star was born - digital music - and artists slipped free the bonds of plastic and metal.

In this issue:

More than 20 years after the invention of the CD, Apple legally uncoupled music from the medium. You download it from the Apple Music Store and play it on anything you want: CD, DVD, iPod, computer, whatever. Is it the pinnacle of mankind's technical achievement? Probably not, but it's easier than listening to a sticky wax cylinder on the gym's treadmill.

Apple Music Rocks

At the Apple Music Store, that song you can't get out of your head is just ninety-nine cents. But you know what's priceless? Owning the music you download and not burning your karma on a fluffy Sheryl Crow ditty. We tackle the groundbreaking ins and unfortunate outs of the Apple Music Store and iTunes 4.

iPhoto 102: Fix Your Pics

iPhoto is wonderfully simple to use, but don't let the good looks fool you: it packs a wallop. The second of this three-part tutorial explains how to quickly perfect (or salvage!) your digital pictures.

Music Lessons

Two great free seminars this month: Discover software and hardware options to digitize music that's on tape or vinyl on June 21. And on June 28, dive into the paradox of the new iPods — smaller, yet so much bigger!

Win a MacForce T-Shirt

We're always looking for ways to improve the Rocket Report, and sometimes the direct method works best. So we're asking and offering bribes. Take a minute to complete this survey, then enter your e-mail address for the grand prize: one of ten super-cool MacForce t-shirts.
